

Do I need teacher certification?

No. Teacher certification is not required, but you must have strong academic training in your fields and be prepared to work with a talented and ambitious student body.

Will you still consider my application if I didn't major in education?

Yes. Preference is given to candidates with a strong liberal arts background.

Whom should I ask to write my letter of recommendation?

You should ask people who know you and your academic work well. At least one recommendation should be written by a professor who can address your academic expertise.

You should also include a reference from someone who can address your leadership skills and/or your previous experience with young people as a tutor, coach, camp counselor, etc. You may wish to demonstrate your interest and commitment to interdisciplinary study through your references, as well.

What are Kent Denver students like?

Kent Denver students are bright, eager, well-rounded and goal-oriented. We enroll students from approximately 60 feeder schools in the greater Denver area and provide our students with $2.1 million in tuition assistance. Approximately 20% of our students are students of color, and our student body includes about equal numbers of boys and girls.

What are Kent Denver faculty like?

Kent Denver has 114 (full- and part-time) faculty members, many of whom have advanced degrees. Each year, we hire talented men and women from national applicant pools.

How will I be supervised?

As a sixth-grade teaching fellow, you will be a part of the sixth-grade team and will meet with the sixth-grade department chair regularly.

What type of housing is offered?

You will share an on-campus apartment with another member of the Kent Denver faculty. Apartments have at least two bedrooms and full kitchens. Many offer views of our picturesque campus.

What is it like to live in Denver?

Denver is the 20th-largest city in the U.S. with a population of about 500,000. The metropolitan area includes about 2.4 million inhabitants. The city boasts many fine restaurants, an active nightlife and numerous opportunities for outdoor enthusiasts. Each major sport league has a team based in Denver.
